The Internet of Things (IoT) is hot these days... it's almost annoyingly popular, even though we're part of the industry. But considering that the IoT touches everyone and nearly every company, I guess it makes sense that Cisco is working on renaming it to the Internet of Everything. With everyone chattering about the IoT, it can be hard to know just who to listen to.

That's why we created a list of the top 43 IoT Twitter accounts. Why 43? I guess we don't really like rounding off our lists. This group of Twitterers includes true experts and thought leaders in the field who share the latest updates and news on M2M and IoT technology so that you stay in the know. We chose accounts based on the quality of content they share, their list of followers, how often they post, and a little bit of our own subjective opinion. (There's a lot of other great accounts out there, but we couldn't include everyone.) So check these IoT Twitter leaders out (in alphabetical order) and be sure to follow the ones that interest you:
